Dear Russ

Re: DCWC-Nepal Charity Ball – June 2nd 2007

It is always a worry when organising a big event. Will people turn up, will the band be good, and will the compere turn up and do the job? A hundred questions and a hundred things that could go wrong.

We had never organised a function this big before, and as you know we had not worked with you previously.

But of all the choices we made, choosing you to host our event was the best one. Before the event you gave good advice about what to do. On the day you arrived early, and from then onwards you controlled the whole event, including organising the performers and the staff.

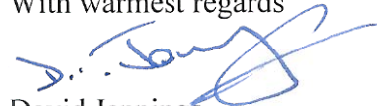

If you had just left it there then you would have been worth the money.

But your on stage Auction was the highlight of the evening. It was entertaining, fast paced, and raised a lot of money for the charity.

The whole event was so good that we are holding another one next year, and your name is our first choice to host the event. I hope you are available.

If anyone needs a reference then show them this letter and give my name as the contact for you. My message would be this; "if you are organising an event and want someone, thoroughly professional and totally reliable to host the event, then look no further than Russ Williams. Absolutely fantastic."

With warmest regards
